

REGENT UNIVERSITY SELECTED AS A TOP MILITARY-FRIENDLY SCHOOL BY MILITARY ADVANCED EDUCATION

(December 23, 2009) – Military Advanced Education (MAE) has selected Regent University as a top school in its 3rd Annual Guide to Top Military-Friendly Colleges & Universities.

“We’re delighted this guide has become a valuable resource for servicemembers and the larger network of educational professionals involved in higher education,” said MAE Editor Mark Fitzgerald.

From community colleges to nationally known centers of higher learning, MAE’s Annual Guide to Military-Friendly Colleges & Universities provides potential students with uniform, pertinent information. Among the attributes considered in evaluating any school’s degree of military friendliness are the quality of its academics, the on-campus and online advice and support it provides to veterans and their families, and the sophistication and effectiveness of its distance learning programs.

“To be recognized by a prestigious publication like Military Advanced Education as a top military-friendly school is validation of our hard work and dedication to honoring the service of our active duty service members, their spouses, and veterans,” said Regent Director of Military Affairs David Boisselle.

Regent University is the nation's academic center for Christian thought and action, with a multitude of on-campus and online programs available worldwide.

Military Advanced Education is the only magazine produced specifically for service members seeking to take advantage of the military education benefit. MAE covers issues and trends in distance learning and education as they specifically relate to military life, including innovative programs, military educational policy, financial aid and coursework that offer special opportunities for military personnel.
